

The National Weather Service satellite web page located at:

<http://www.wrh.noaa.gov/satellite>

Continues to experience technical difficulties. There are issues with the receipt of satellite data from NOAA's Satellite and Information Service. This problem has prevented the updating of satellite images on the satellite page. The images now displayed on this page are not current.

Satellite data may be obtained through a variety of alternate government and military sources at this time:

<http://www.aviationweather.gov/satellite>

http://www.nrlmry.navy.mil/sat-bin/epac_westcoast.cgi

Additional resources, university and private sector satellite pages, are also available online with current satellite data.

We sincerely apologize for the inconvenience and will provide additional information as it becomes available.

--San Francisco Bay Area National Weather Service
Monterey, CA